John —

I was disappointed in reading the attached IA on "The Peace Movement in Western Europe" at how superficially the role of the Soviets in promoting this movement was treated (page 2). Even this brief account of Soviet activity in this arena was not deemed sufficiently important to be included in the Key Judgments, which we both know is generally all that the more senior people in government read.

As an indication of what more might have been done, I attach a brief analysis that was in the INR Morning Summary last Saturday. In short, it appears that a good deal more information is available than appeared in the IA, but was not used.
